

Gecko Grief
by Ray Roden

There once was a gecko.
He climbed a tree.
He had a freckle
That he could not see.
He liked to climb,
And he liked to eat.
But he committed a crime
And ate up my feet!
Ignoring my grief,
It sat on a leaf.
He then went to sleep,
Without even a peep.